REFLECTIONS

In reflections the ripples circle—
Circling to the obscure
But at the source the current is strong
And the image vibrantly clear.
Not always somber, we splashed in guy pools
A spirit once soiled and then lobbed,
A trickle, a hope, victories glorious
Whirling,—the twilight ahead.

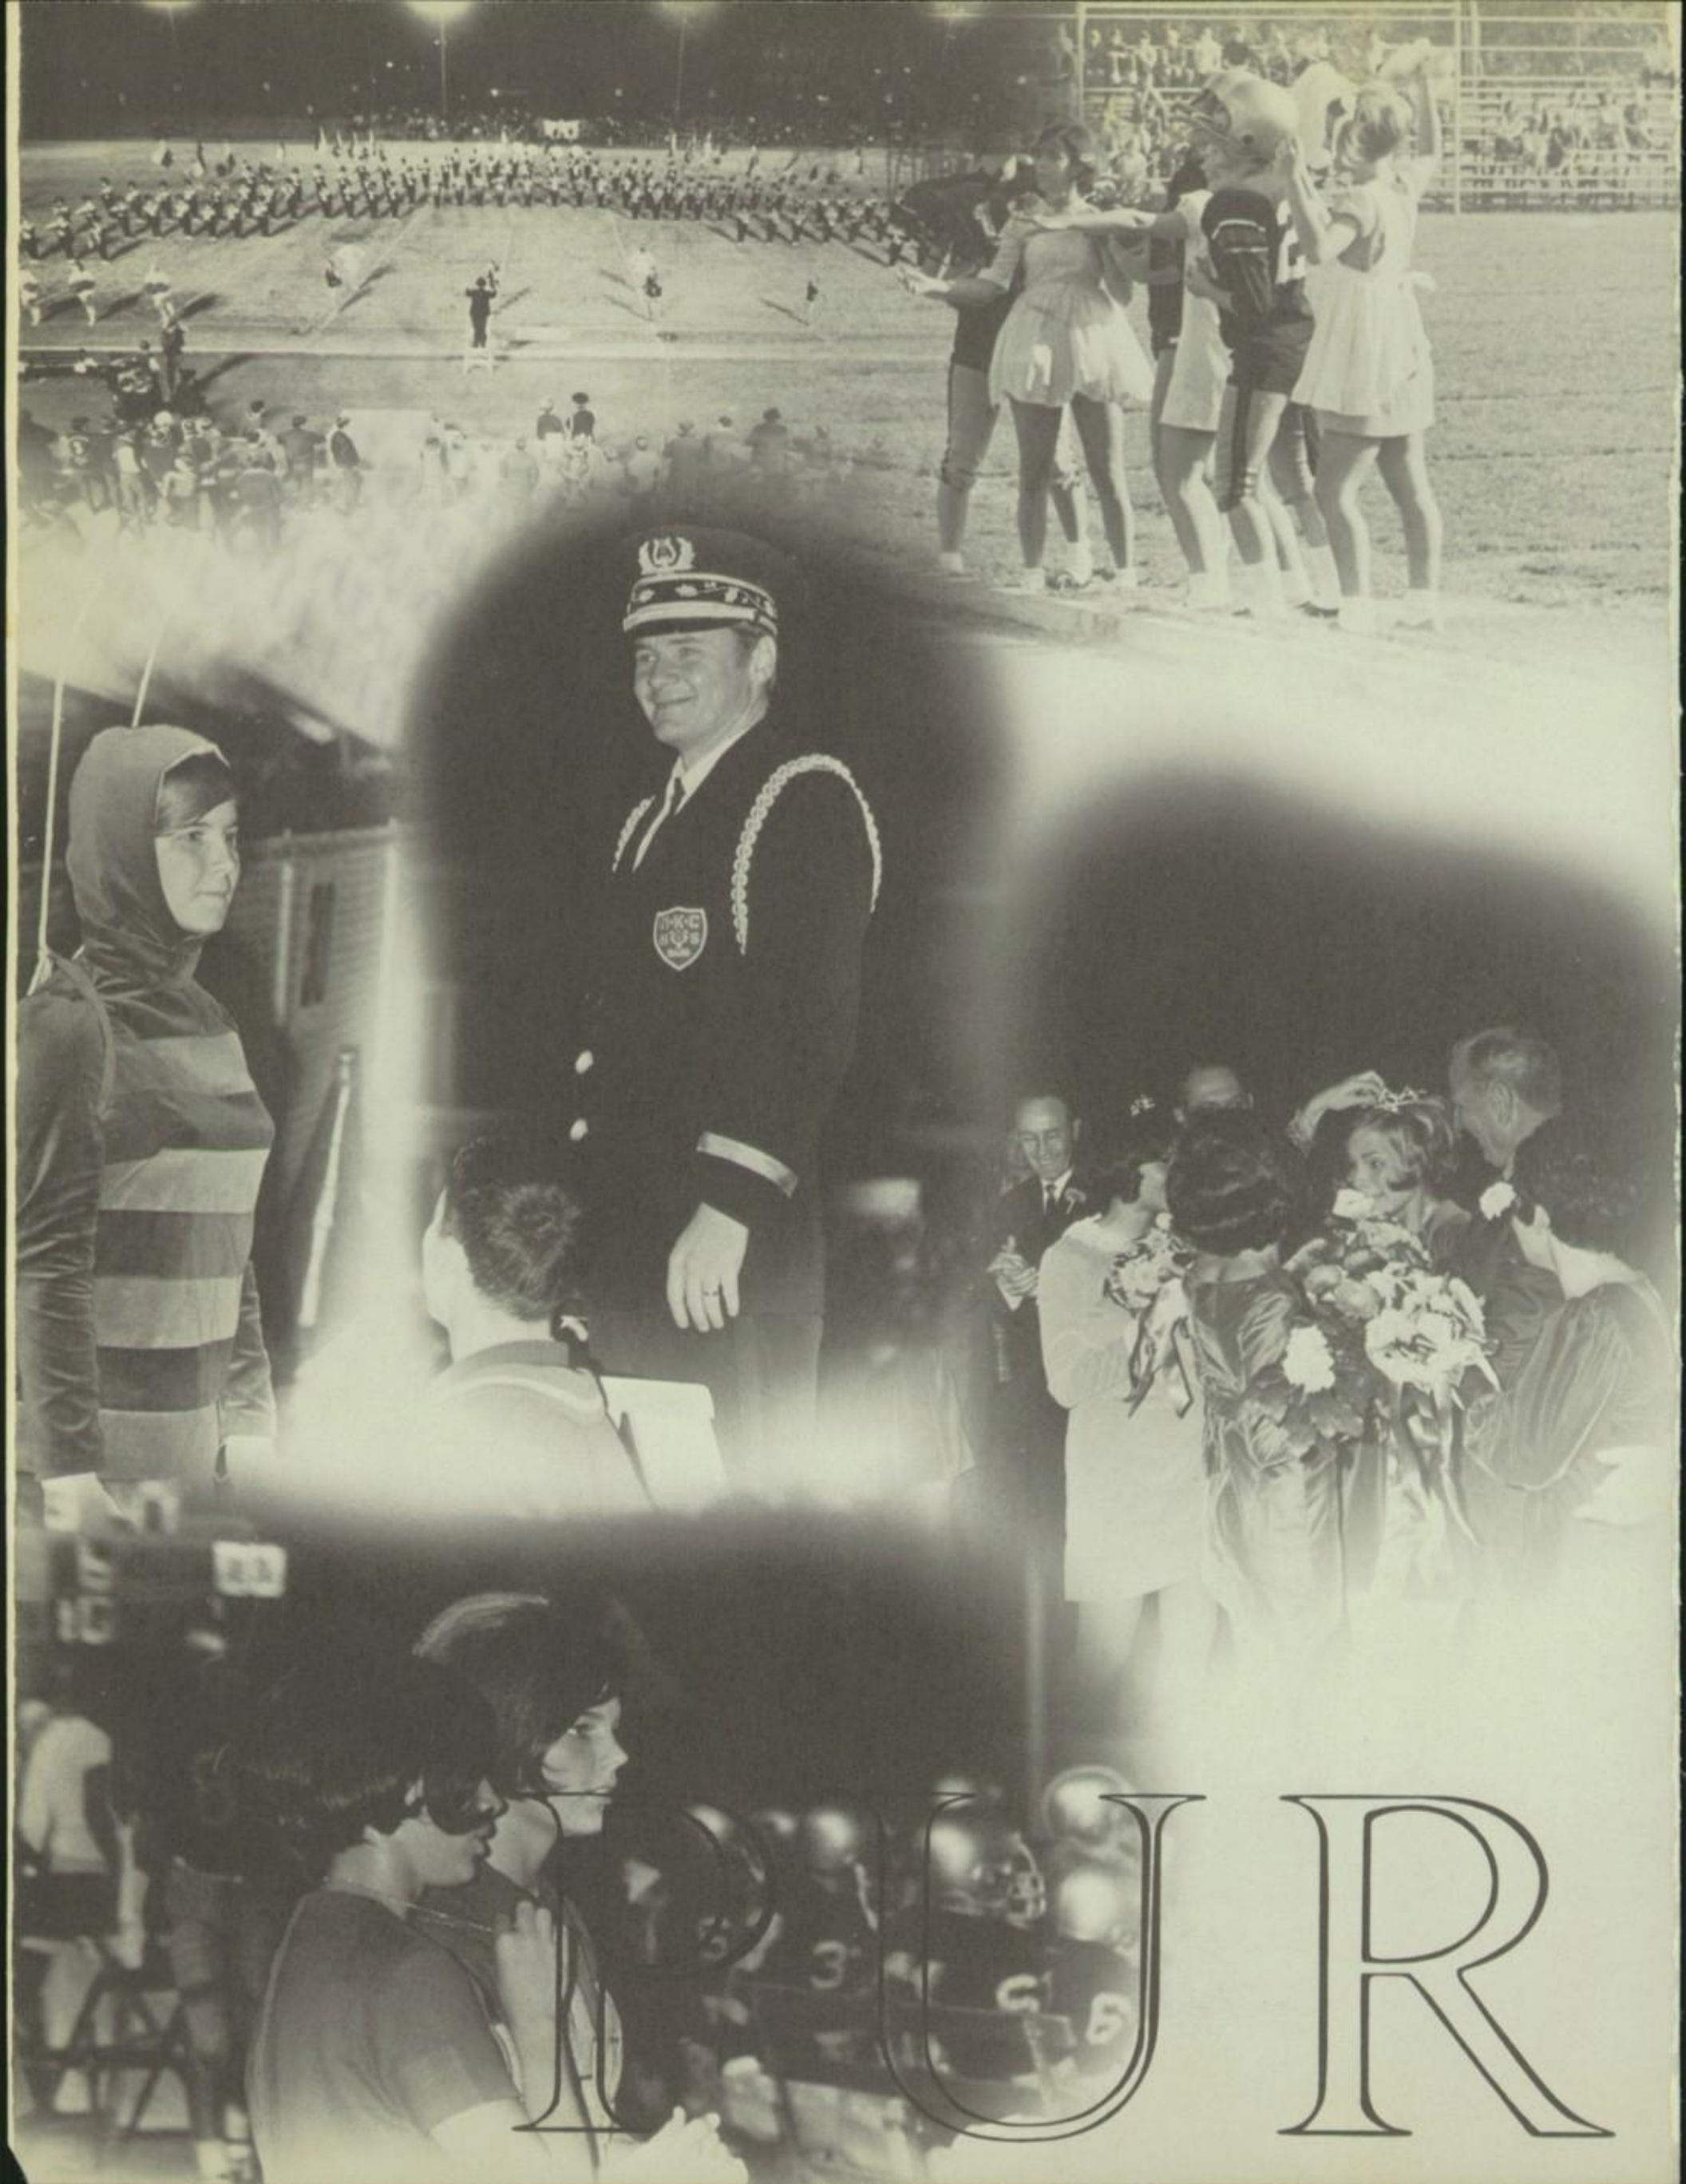

The source and strength swirl from a search—
A journey from inkling to thought.
Flowing and growing we arose and we sought
A glimmer, a shadow, a truth.
One lonely drop remains of that image—
That icon once clear in that pool,
The mingling of the faces, familiar, strange places
Blurred, lingering reflections called "school."

Foreword

Now, with the closing of the 1969-70 school year at North Kansas City High School, we are very reluctant to realize that the river of Time has come and gone. Whether we liked what we saw in the reflections of the water or not, the images will remain. We can't relive the songs we didn't sing, or the dreams we didn't dream, or the loves we didn't love. There is always the IF I had known what trouble you were bearing or what griefs that were hidden in your face, then I would have been more gentle and more caring. IF I had known. If I had known what thoughts were depressing to you, then I would have lent a little friendship to you and slipped my hand within your hand and made your stay at NKC more fulfilling. IF I had known.

Although these reflections aren't to be captured in a photograph or a phrase, the tension is still there. Nevertheless, the PURGOLD staff wishes to capture for the student body some of the priceless memories in which we, as the student body, pulled together as one. One in which we relived the songs we sang and the dreams we dreamed and the loves we loved—but for a moment during the 1969-70 school year.

Not just a building, NKC has given the student body another lasting image, as the graduating Seniors leave the mingling of the faces, familiar strange places; blurred, lingering reflections called "school."

In Memory Of Judith Ann Kretzschmer

Judy was very active at Northtown during her three years here. She was in National Honor Society, pep club, and was editor of the Hornets' BUZZ. This was her most important contribution to N.K.C. In return for all the service she rendered to the school paper, Judy gave the school top honors from Columbia University, New York City; All-Missouri from the University of Missouri-Columbia; and International First Place from the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

During Judy's after school hours she roller skated at the Antioch Rink. Since she was three years old, Judy practiced several nights a week to enable her to go to city, state, and district meets. Judy proved her superior talent in skating, by earning the Gold Bar. The only higher achievement is the Gold Medal, where Judy failed to attain it in Little Rock, Arkansas last summer. "Maybe next time," she said.

All of those who knew Judy, will always remember the many favors that she carried out without undue attention to herself. She was a very gracious lady. Perhaps Judy's greatest asset was her friendly smile and truly warm personality. No one will ever forget her.

From the Days of Burlesque to Acid Rock, the AFS club took Northtown students on a tour of the 1900's. Eleven clubs participated in this event and turned it into a reminiscent and refreshing experience. The faculty trumpeted and drummed in their talents to present a George M. Cohan medley.

Clever sketches, black outs, flicker techniques, and musical interludes filled the program for a delightful two hours. Even this year's AFS students worked up folk songs for the event. AFS successfully showed "You've Come A Long Way Baby."

The announcement of the seven Purgold candidates, at the A.F.S. Variety Show, led to committee meetings, booths, posters, and the selling of over 1500 Purgolds. As the girls worked toward their goals, the industrious Purgold staff created a "Looking Glass" effect for the assembly on December 5. The excitement reached its climax when Kim VanKirk was honored as second princess, Marcie Jenkins, first princess, and Rhonda Westman was crowned the 1970 Purgold Queen.

SPORTS

If I had to do it over . . .

Coach James Shepherd, this year's cross country coach, came to N.K.C. in 1967, but has spent the last two years teaching in Sedalia. He returned this year to take over from Coach Kenneth Martin. He graduated from college at Central Missouri State and received his master's at Kansas State in Pittsburg. Through Mr. Shepherd's leadership and dedication the cross country team had a successful season.

Cross Country

This season's cross country runners, under the guidance of Coach Shepherd, achieved second place in the district, tenth place at the state meet, and third place in the conference. The overall result this year, of four wins and three losses, was an improvement over last year.

The team broke three of their own records by first, improving their position in the state meet from 13th to 10th place. Second, also in the state meet, they set a record by scoring 185 fewer points than in any previous year. The third record was set in the district meet. In 1967 the team scored 59 points in the district. This year the team improved by 12 points by scoring 47.

Physically and mentally Doug Brown anticipates the gun.

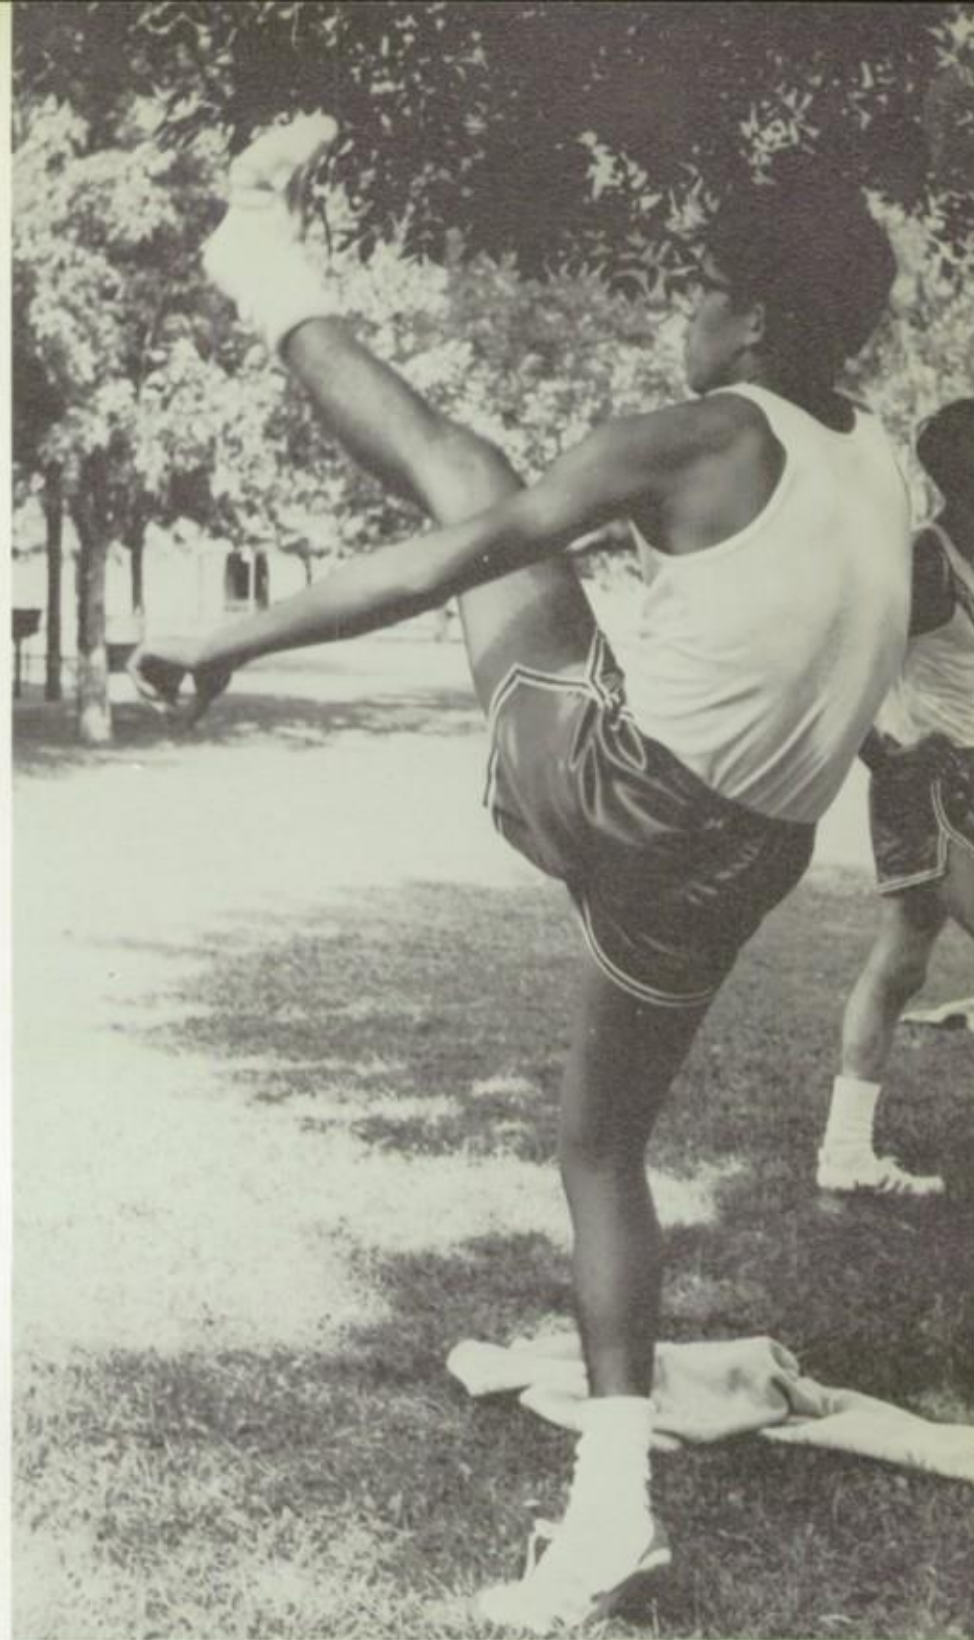

Cross country runners relax before the Swope Park meet.

Takes 10th

Individual praise must go to Doug Brown who broke five individual performance records. He broke N.K.C. records at Swope Park, conference and the district. He reduced the school record from 10:36 (set by Bill Geary) to 10:04. At Swope Park, Doug broke his brother's record by making a 10:23 run. In the conference meet, Doug broke the record by 14 seconds, and in the district by 55 seconds. On the new Macken Park course, he now holds the record of 10:06. Sophomore Joe Valenti also broke two records, reducing the N.K.C. all course record at the state meet to 10:36.

The team must be congratulated on their improvement over previous years and with their present enthusiasm future progress is assured.

The Oakies In Half

Terry Adkison hands off to Sean Birmingham against Southwest.

After a rather meager and unrewarding opening to the season with several losses, the Varsity football squad gained confidence and co-ordination to end the season with a run of victories, terminating with a victory over Oak Park by 13 points to 12. This was the first time that Northtown had defeated Oak Park, and in fact the first time that Northtown had scored against them in the five years of Northtown-Oak Park duels.

The valiant efforts by the squad, expected to finish last in the conference, achieved third place with a 4 and 3 record by the end of the season. Victories were gained over Raytown, Oak Park, Truman and Raytown South, all very closely fought games. Reflecting on previous years this season was an undisputable improvement, and all concerned with the result are to be congratulated. The squad deserved praise for their team spirit and determination even when the future was extremely dark. Coach Boyce should also receive special thanks for his devotion to the players, and for engineering them into a praiseworthy team. With his continued guidance next year success is certain, as is another victory over Oak Park.

The Sophomore football team this year finished with a 4 and 4 record. Victories were achieved over Ruskin, Center, Truman and William Chrisman High Schools. This was an improvement over last year. The ability shown by the Sophomore team is certain to provide many future stars for the Varsity team. In fact, members of the Sophomore team have appeared this season on the Varsity squad.

Although there was no official Junior Varsity team this year members of the Sophomore and Varsity squads joined forces to play four games which failed to bring a victory for N.K.C.

At the football banquet, in November, the J.V. and Sophomore teams accepted the challenge given by the Varsity squad to beat Oak Park again next year, and to finally remove the rock of uncertainty that has hung over the heads of the Northtown footballers for so many years.

With his usual grace, Craig Shour takes the ball.

This season's Varsity Basketballers finished with a conference record of 9 and 5, attaining them second place. After a somewhat unsure opening to the season with defeats in the 20th annual N.K.C. Basketball Tourney, the team found its tracks in the road to success and maintained a consistently high record of victories.

This season's team has shown a considerable improvement over previous years. Improvement is due largely to the high standards of play achieved by the team, which throughout displayed unity, organization, precision and sportsmanship. Praise must also go to Coach Bob Ogden, under whose guidance, coached the team to their outstanding record.

6' 11" Craig Shour, Woody Dunning, Robin Hulen, Roger Mathes and Doug Lee provided the backbone of the team this season. Managers and trainers must also be mentioned, without whose valuable help such a basketball team would never have existed.

Junior Varsity Basketballers finished with an 8 and 8 record for their games, which was better than previous years' records. Under the coaching guidance of Coach James Shepherd the team evolved from a shaky start to finish with a rally of victories.

All the players showed the makings of varsity players for next year, and in the later games of this season, Terry Myers, Paul Miller and Dennis Copeland appeared on the varsity squad. Many tributes could be paid to the team but "very well done" covers all. Northtown is assured of a Varsity Team of excellent quality next year on the basis of this year's Junior Varsity performance.

Grapplers Sweep Invitational,

Steve Ash renders a Southwest Indian immobile.

Hornet grapplers exhibited their prowess in sweeping the N.K.C. Invitational, Suburban 8 conference, and district meets. N.K.C. accumulated 133 points as compared to the 115 points of Oak Park and Leavenworth at the N.K.C. Invitational. They again slipped by the Northmen at the conference meet by the score of 87-86. At the district tournament, the Hornets compiled a 54 point lead over the second place Lexington team thanks to five first place wrestlers.

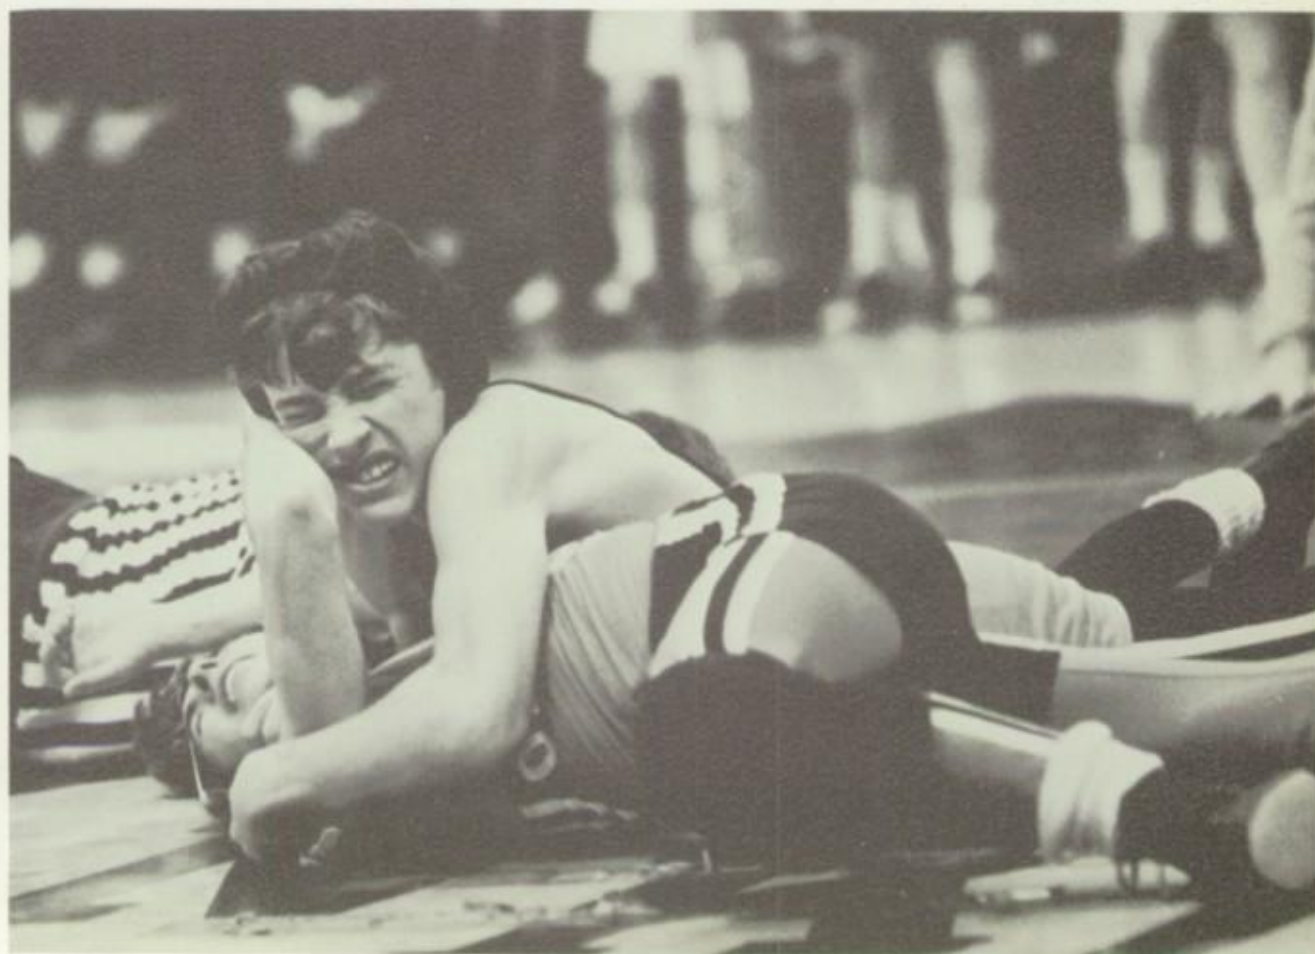

An outstanding performance was shown by senior John Lowman, who, in his first year of wrestling, took first place in all three meets. Steve Ash placed first in the conference and the district. Lee Blankenship placed first in the district, also, and took first at the Invitational.

A familiar sight at N.K.C. as another Hornet achieves his pin.

Lee Blankenship exhibits the form that gained him fourth place in the state competition.

After an excellent showing at the Invitational, District and Regional tournaments, North Kansas City grapplers went on to take seventh place in the state. Three Hornets went to the state competition held this year at Lee's Summit High School. They were, John Lowman, of the 185 lb. weight group, Steve Ash, of the 123 lb. weight group, and Lee Blankenship of the 115 lb. weight group.

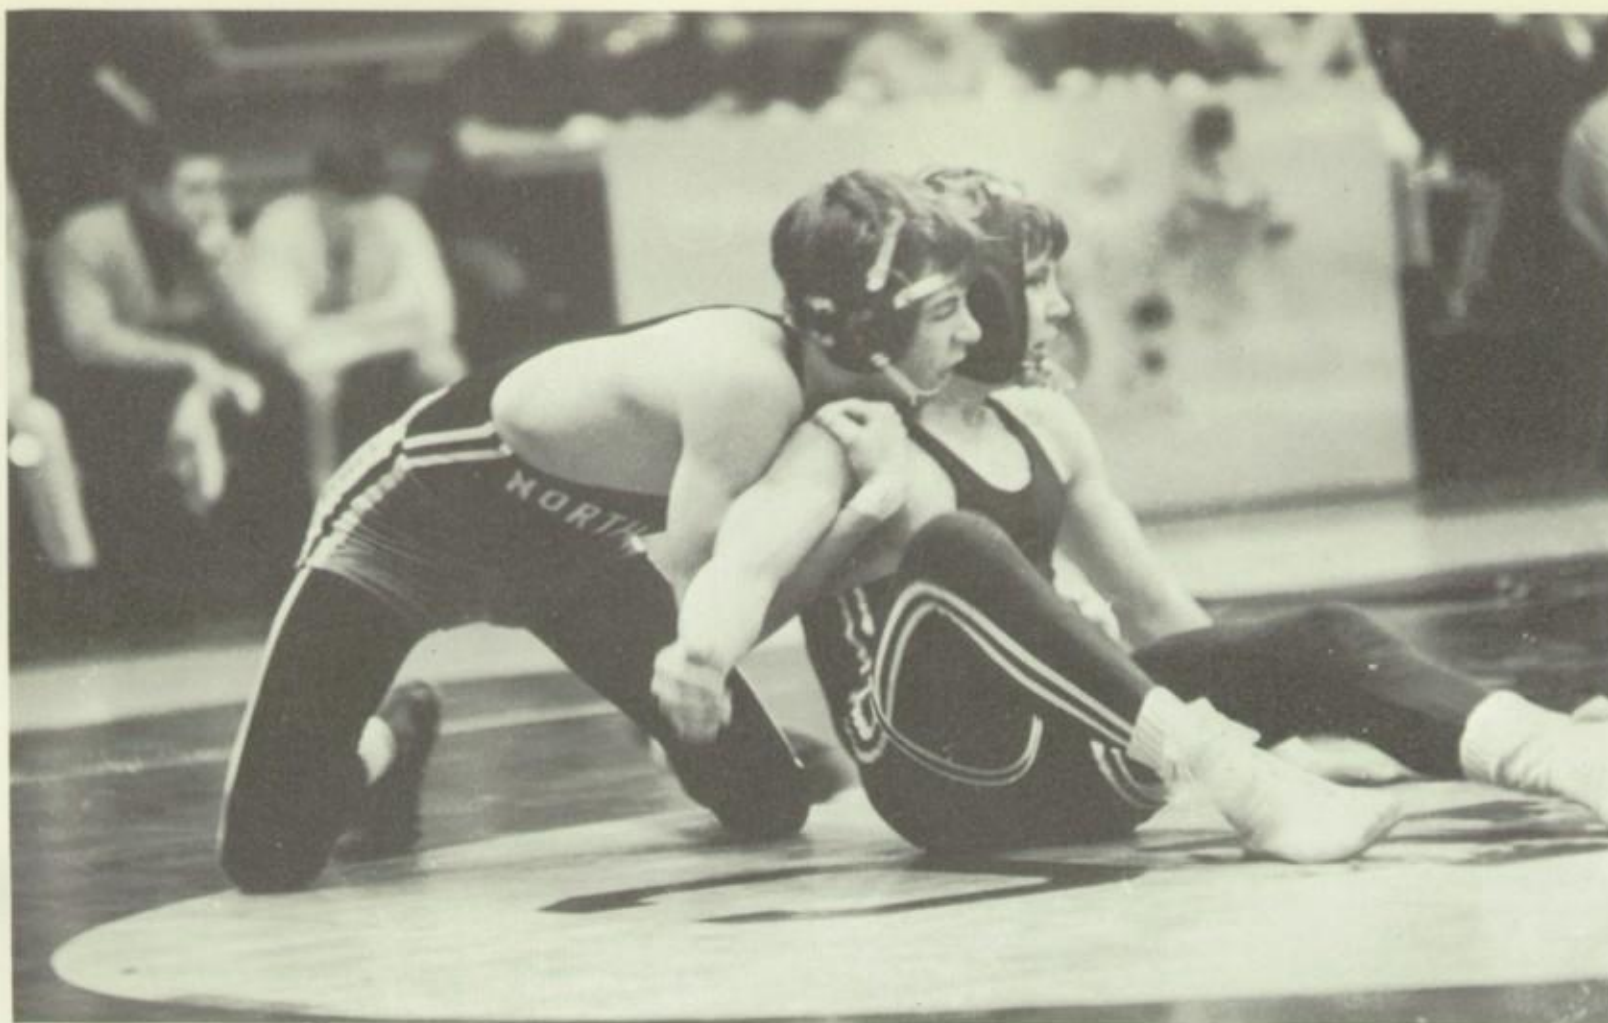

Ash took second and Blankenship took fourth place in the state tournament.

Steve Ash displays his talent with which he earned second place in the state competition.

John Lowman, champion of the Invitational, District and Regionals was the third Hornet to attend the state competition.

Steve Ash keeps control as his opponent attempts a "sit-out."

Pep Club

Throughout the year at N.K.C., Pep Club provided much enthusiasm. A victory over the Oakies, a trip to St. Louis, and a very successful basketball season, were only a few of the triumphs in which Pep Club members found themselves involved.

The members find themselves busy making banners, going to games, decorating lockers, or baking cakes for their "sons". Led by Mother Stone and Rhonda Westman, president, Pep Club undertakes many projects. Among these are: the adoption of boys, workshop in the summer, and Homecoming. Fellowship of Christian Athletes Fellowship of Christian Athletes, organized at NKC in 1968, worked to create a sportsmanlike attitude in athletics and in life. Speakers in various athletic fields came to Northtown to share their views with members of the club. FCA officers for the 1969-70 year were: president, Dale McEowen; vice-president, Russ Van Ness; treasurer, John Spotts; Chaplain, Kim Christainson.

Rough and tough and mighty are we?

Ray Hastings talks over future plans of N-Club.

N-Club

N-Club was comprised of those boys who excelled in a certain sport at Northtown. Coach Crouthers and Ray Hastings led the club through various activities, including the adoption of needy families at Christmas. The year closed for N-Club as the members enjoyed a picnic with Pep Club.

Key Club

Diligent Key Club members were seen at home football and basketball games this year, selling popcorn in an effort to raise money for their club. With this money, the members worked as a service to the school and the community. With the help of Mr. Brad Hirni, the club was able to record a very successful year.

Modern Music Masters

Modern Music Masters, an honorary organization headed by Mr. White, allowed students an opportunity to develop better habits in music listening and performance. Northtown students with a vocal or instrumental talent were invited to become members of Tri-M and were given a chance to hear speakers during the year.

Health Careers Club

Health Careers Club enjoyed various speakers as they gained important knowledge concerning a career in medicine. Mrs. Beigel and Mrs. Ness, sponsors, helped the club members arrange activities for the year.

It has been a pleasure getting to know you personally, and of course, as a whole, spend this wonderful AFS year in Kansas City. When I visited your school this spring, I found that your school is not half as bad as the rumor says. (he, he) I wish we had someone like you up on Oak Park, and I'm truly greatful for everything you've done for us. Come and see me in Sweden sometime.

Deca Club

Deca Club, proposed by the state department of education, worked to promote career interest in distribution and marketing. Members were required to be enrolled in the cooperative distributive education class. During the year the Deca members were vocation speakers for the special education classes along with helping at the state school for the retarded. The climax for Deca came in April at the vocational banquet held in their honor.

FTA

Future Teachers of America provided students with information about teaching as a profession. Along with this, FTA completed several service projects during the 1969-70 school year. Students with an interest in teaching learned much about their future career through FTA.

Mr. Moore works with FBLA members.

Interested FBLA members learn from community business leaders.

FBLA

Hoping to stimulate an interest in business education and to develop better business leaders, FBLA met every month to plan for future events. At the end of the year Future Business Leaders of America awarded a pin to the outstanding business student in the senior class. Officers of FBLA are: president, Connie Hubble; vice-president, Judy Holliway; secretary, Chris Dunn; treasurer, Linda Butler; reporter, Nacie Nenaber.

Every little bit helps!

Y-Teens

Working in the interest of others, Y-Teens also helped each member grow as a person. Sweetheart Ball, World Week of Prayer, and a Halloween party for the retarded children, were some of the activities Y-Teens participated in. The 1969-70 officers were: Jan Harris, president; Chris Realph, vice-president; Kim Van Kirk, secretary; Dietta Atkins, treasurer; Reggi Nichols, Shae Stark, historians; Diane Schmidt, chaplain.

GRA

Girls' Recreation Association gave girls with athletic talents a chance for further participation. Northtown's GRA club was invited to other schools to compete in athletic events, and in order to prepare for these events, the members worked after school developing their special strategies. Officers of GRA were: Marcy Lowe, president; Marcia Courtney, vice-president; Edwina Bringe, secretary-treasurer; Debbie Balagna, sports manager.

FHA

FHA, a national organization, was founded to meet the needs of girls who will be America's future homemakers. It was designed to help these girls develop desirable attitudes and skills. NKC's future homemakers of America adopted a needy family at Christmas, and had various speakers attend their meetings.

French Club

Students, interested in adding to their knowledge about France, comprised French Club's membership. To become a full-fledged member of the club, it was necessary to undergo an initiation which at times became very sticky. After initiation, French club prepared for future activities. Officers of French club are: Lynne Winbigler, president; Paula Mueller, vice-president; Becky Fischer, secretary-treasurer; Debbie Smith, historian.

Refreshments are a must for French Club.

Spanish Club

Spanish Club members had a chance to attend a Spanish movie and to learn the art of fencing during the 1969-70 school year. After initiation early in the year, the members began money making projects in order to accomplish what they had set out to do. Their dreams became reality as 1970 proved to be a very successful year. Spanish Club officers: Tim Wilson, president; Linda Walker, vice-president; Duane Carter, treasurer; Janet Lee, secretary; Raymond Nance, Sgt-at-arms.

German Club

Selling candy was one method German Club used for making money to support the activities of their club. One important activity was the Christmas display for Ward Parkway which was made by Northtown's German Club. Werner Hebeisen, exchange student from Austria, added much to the club concerning culture and customs in his country. German Club officers: Bill Livingston, president; Werner Hebeisen, vice-president; Sheila O'Neal, secretary; Donna Rice, treasurer.

Student Council worked throughout the 1969-70 school year in order to bring Northtown students representation in school affairs. Elected last spring, Mike Fain, president, and Mark Sadler, vice-president, led Student Council members through various projects. Ditty bags were sent to the troops in Vietnam and the annual Chili Supper proved successful. The Student Faculty Committee got off to a better start this year, and open meetings of Student Council were held to encourage further student representation.

Under the leadership of Mr. Blaine and Miss Widebrook, AFS promoted international goodwill. Werner

Claude Anderson was the "brother" of Werner Hebeisen from Scharding, Austria. Werner's first impression of NKC was that he was "not used to such a big town." Werner's interest in music enabled him to be the first exchange student to participate in the school orchestra. He has studied music since the age of ten. When Werner was asked what faults he thought the Americans had, he said they just turn the radio on and do not listen. The music seems to become just noise. Werner hopes to attend the university in Innsbrook, Austria when he returns home.

DEMICS

A cheerful smile makes the facts and figures of any board meeting go smoother.

Today, the burden is theirs.

In the room with the long mahogany table and the chairs situated around it, the Board of Education meets with the talk of deep voices and the curling of smoke from ashtrays on the table, while eyes roam the figures on stacks of papers. . . In short the Board of Education is in another meeting. It is the quality of education that they hold in the sometimes moist palms of their hands—The quality which will directly influence the future of America. When one considers all the places in America where there are school boards . . . when one thinks of all the men who hold America's fate in their palms. . . we can greater appreciate the job that they are doing—and the job that we should respect.

Preoccupied involvement—thumbing through a report.

The operation of Northtown is greatly similar to the operation of a huge corporation. The principals, secretaries, and counselors are the important executives that are accountable for the company's profit or loss. They must see that each day functions smoothly without loss, so that the company will keep in the black, and not in the red. It is the students who are the stockholders; the executives are there to help us reap a profit...

Now, Mrs. Neer, my fine can't really be $4.82.

The North Kansas City High School library reflects the Hornets' willingness to learn. It is rapidly developing into a comprehensive research center.

This year, the audio-visual section was expanded to such proportions that it became necessary to divide it from the actual library. Miss Taylor and Miss Pulley are the caretakers of this factor of research.

Many Uses for Social Sciences

Don't do as I do, do as I say.

The social science courses include Psychology, Family Life, Sociology, and International Relations. These studies range from the mysteries of the mind to the equally puzzling relations between the United States and Russia. Social sciences offer the Northtown Hornets an opportunity to investigate many facets of the human and his relation to himself and others. They are the beginnings of a wide range of vocations in several fields.

Mathematics courses provide opportunities to study any facet of the subject, ranging from general math to UICSM or trigonometry. Students can learn skills which will be useful to them in many other high school and college courses, either preliminary or advanced.

Learning History . . .

More than four score and seven years ago a record of history was initiated. In fact it was a lot more than that. Yet, our history department manages to effectively cover all of these years of occurrences within the three years of high school. The sophomore and junior classes are coordinated with their respective English classes. Elective classes provide the opportunity for students to explore their individual interests.

North Kansas City's English courses reflect the study of the language as a written art and as a useful skill. English II, III, and IV involve not only grammar techniques, but a study of those segments of literature which correspond with the appropriate history course. Senior Literature is based upon all ages of English writing. It also provides a background for college studies.

Team teaching has been established in sophomore and junior English in order to correlate the aspects of history and English. Senior Literature is divided into Modern and Pre-Modern literature.

Business classes receive an invaluable asset by learning typing, shorthand, data processing, bookkeeping, business law or economics. These basic fundamentals may help the opportunity of procuring employment or providing an insight into the problems that lurk ahead in the future business world. To an equal extent these provide an aid in college for those seeking further advancement. Just think, not being able to take notes by Gregg's shorthand, or typing a term paper by the "hunt and peck" system of the right and left forefingers, one might never make it through the business world.

Art Takes

Looking at one's own reflection in the glass before the language lab booths, one may wonder how he looks to the people of the language that he is trying so hard to speak. In another corner of the globe, another student sees his reflection with the same wondering as he sits trying to learn to speak English from an English tape. Reflections happen to all of us—it is our way of expressing them that makes all peoples unique.

Art classes experiment in many different mediums—from etching and printing. . .to oil painting. Just as the good picture must have balance and form, so must the good artist—balance in his ability to express himself in as many ways as he sees his subject. . .and form in that he can develop his ideas so that others can understand them, without sacrificing his own individualism.

The 1969 marching band, composed of ninety-six bandsmen, twenty six pom pon girls, twenty-seven bannerettes, four majorettes, and two drum majors, marched through not only rain and mud, but other obstacles, to convey North Kansas City's spirit at many events both at home and away. These one hundred and fifty-five students plus
 Mr. Patrick White, band director, participated in the American Royal parade, the William Jewell homecoming, the pre-game show at the Mineral Water Bowl, and the Shriners' parade, not to mention five half-time shows at home and one away at Rockhurst High School

At each performance, a completely different show was presented.
 At times the show was even different from what Mr. White, himself, expected. Yet, each was excellent in format and in execution.

The band put in many hours of practice during their first hour class period plus an average of one extra practice, after school, every two weeks. Despite all this marching, Mr. White feels that they never got enough work on the field before a performance.

Night, The Band Goes Marching On.

The shield formation, perhaps the most difficult of the band's many routines, was performed at the NKC-Oak Park game.

Do you realize you have just cut your dress in two pieces?

Creative talents or engineering interests can be developed in Industrial Arts classes. Drafting, electricity, metal, woods, and crafts courses offer opportunities in every area of ability. Students can explore their talents in these areas and either make wise decisions or learn skills to aid them in future vocations.

If your attitude & abilities were in the majority of college students today I'd personally feel we would have a lot less troubled schools & universities. A pleasure having you work for us during your senior year.

The purpose of COE classes is to help temper "on the job experience" with "in the classroom study" at school. Students learn the value and possible difficulties of maintaining a job while continuing the need for education. This experience early prepares those students for such things as working part-time in college and the necessity of time budgeting, a considerable advantage in the days after graduation. It will augment and maintain an ability to accept change, and it will serve to strengthen the individual's sense of pride, dignity and independence.

On the job training, helps students find the best line of work.

Pride, and Independence.

In physical education learning to work together is the chief objective. No matter what the sport, the success of the whole team depends upon the mutual cooperation of its players. Other sports may be more fun than they are work, and they may not take the muscle output of football, baseball, or field sports. Everyone likes to square dance!! Still, there is present the concept of human cooperation between the participants.

Quick, guys, grab the ball.

A still life, one of the most difficult types of photographs to shoot, is put into focus by members of the photography class.

The photography class becomes more aware of the finer aspects of photography, and utilizes the basic principles in the quest for producing on film the beauty and exquisite intricacies of our world. Not to just take a good picture, but to capture the effervescence of life and motion of the subject, which in itself becomes the essence of "the really good" photography.

Watch Out for that Red Light!!

Reflections in the glass, reveal home-sweet-home after a terrifying ride in the city.

"Watch out for fenders, little old ladies, puppy dogs, diesel trucks, stop signs, red lights, the center line, fire trucks, ambulances, and least of all don't try to drive without buckling up or turning the ignition" are often times the words heard by students learning the proper procedure for controlling an automobile under driving circumstances. In Drivers' Ed one idea students are made aware of: an automobile respects its driver as long as its driver respects it. It is with this in mind, and the warnings of instructors, that everyday North Kansas City Hornets set out toward the road of an ability they will have to keep at par as long as they desire to have the wheels on Saturday night.

Joe,
It's been a great year, hasn't it.
Good wishes to you in the future years, and may God bless you!

I will be sorry to see you leave NK. But after graduation, what is there to look forward to for you? Me?
I joined the Navy so that question is solved.

Joe -
It's hard putting words to people who are easy-going, friendly, and always cheerful, and ready to say "Hello". Joe, you're a great guy and it's too bad that Miss Graves's class was the only class we had together.
Lots of luck to you my friend,
Gale Bullock

Joe,
You've made
a great A.P.S. Pres.

Joe

I'm feeling kinda sad now 'cause
I just realized that we won't be seeing as much of each other as before. I'll really miss you. Did you know you have a great shoulder to cry on when I'm feeling down? Well ya do. You're always so cheerful that I've never had a bad time when we went out together. I just can't tell you how much you mean to me. Lots of Luck.

Love
Chris

Joe,

I haven't seen much of ya. Good Luck,
